For the first time an almost complete collection of constitutional documents for all the countries of the world since 1776 will be published by K. G. Saur Verlag. The collection includes not only enacted constitutions, but also draft constitutions and constitutional amendments, and also extends, as in the case of the United States, down to state government level.

- For the approx. 1,500 individual constitutional documents, mainly from Europe and the two Americas from 1776 until 1849, two publications are available: firstly the book edition, sorted by country offering the authentic, historically-critical editions. Secondly the online-access to these works, additionally offering facsimiles of the original print or manuscript of these constitutional documents.

- For the period between 1850 and today, the original documents are contained in the microfiche edition, with a total of 1,039 microfiches filmed for Europe and 1,750 microfiche filmed for North and South America. Africa is currently at the planning stage.

Print Edition

Constitutions of the World from the late 18th Century to the Middle of the 19th Century is the most complete and academically thorough collection of its kind. These early constitutions were collected in libraries and archives all over the world as part of a project funded by the German Research Council (DFG).

Using the original documents, experts from American and European universities reconstructed the authentic constitution texts for each country, and annotated them in their respective original languages. Each volume contains a short introduction, a main part with the edited constitution documents of a country, comments and an index.

Online Edition

Constitutions of the World Online offers access to approx. 28.000 digitised pages of historical documents of constitutions and declarations of rights in the then used languages. In many cases these documents are widely scattered and are sometimes only available as handwritten manuscripts. The centre of the database are the original constitutional texts for each country, which were reconstructed, edited, annotated and indexed in their respective original languages, and can also be searched via full text.

The edition offers the users both in the book and the online version a unique indexing of the original documents and their edited versions. A specially developed method for description and structuring captures the logical structures of each document down to individual sections and paragraphs.

Microfiche Edition

Constitutions of the World 1850 to the Present contains historical constitutions that have long been replaced by new versions, as well as all the constitutions currently enforced throughout the world.

The original constitutional texts are included as facsimile copies. English translations of the constitutions are also provided where available.

Following the first part containing all the constitutions of Europe is the second part dedicated to the constitutions of North and South America. It contains the constitutions of around 49 states and dependencies in North, Central and South America (as well as those of the Caribbean).

A total of approximately 1,800 constitutions published since 1850 have been gathered together from these countries. They include the independent constitutions of the nation states, the constitutions of the federal states, constitutional alterations and declarations of human rights.

The edition includes a multi-lingual index of constitutions, listing all filmed documents complete with dates of resolution, coming into effect, publication and references to respective fiche numbers. The constitutions are listed in the original language along with translations in English and German. Targeted research is facilitated by geographical, historical and chronological indexes.

Key features:

- All the documents are published in their original languages, with English translations also included for the constitutions published since 1850 where available.
- Here for the first time, authentic texts of all previously scattered and in many cases, unknown constitutions from the early phases of modern constitutionalism have been thoroughly edited and made accessible for research.

Editor: Horst Dippel, Kassel University, Project Director of the Research Group „The Rise of Modern Constitutionalism“.

The individual volumes are edited by experts of the particular region.
